SHEN YUN'S AERIAL MASTERS

THROUGHOUT the 5,000 years of Chinese civilization, martial arts techniques—tempered on the field of battle—were incorporated into classical Chinese dance in what has become a vast repertoire of jumps, twists, spins and tumbling techniques. Through the centuries, classical Chinese dance also incorporated profound wisdom and aesthetic principles from each era and dynasty of the Middle Kingdom, becoming one of the most demanding and expressive dance systems in the world.

With Shen Yun's aerial masters of classical Chinese dance, experience what dance can be.

Concert. Some urge boycott of Rick Ross for 'rape' lyrics

New Yorkers planning to see hip-hop artist Rick Ross this Friday in Long Island should save their cash, City Council members advised yesterday.

Bronx Councilman Andy King said that he is "outraged" by the artist's lyrics, which describe date rape.

"Save your money,"

King said to New Yorkers who might be pondering tickets.

Council members called on New Yorkers to boycott the concert, and some went further—Brooklyn Councilwoman Letitia James said all Americans should boycott Reebok, his sponsor, until it drops him. ALISON BOWEN

Weiner says he may run in New York mayoral bid

Second act. Tainted ex-congressman says he's thinking about mayoral run

The race to succeed New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg could receive a dose of intrigue with former Congressman Anthony Weiner considering a run for office two years after he stepped away from politics in a scandal over lewd pictures.

Weiner, who has a sizable campaign war chest and strong name recognition, could pose a challenge to City Council Speaker Christine Quinn, who is considered the front-runner and would be the city's first female and first lesbian mayor.

Quoted

"This is a trial balloon. And if trial balloons don't go up, they burst and they create opportunities."

Hank Sheinkopf

"You're talking about a city where anything can happen at any time and generally does," Democratic consultant Hank Sheinkopf said.

In an interview with The New York Times Magazine, Weiner said that, after spending $100,000 on polling, he had concluded voters might be willing to give him a second chance.

"I don't have this burning, overriding desire to go out and run for office," said Weiner, a Democrat who was once considered an early front-runner in the race.

"It's not the single animating force in my life as it was for quite some time. But I do recognize, to some degree, it's now or maybe never for me, in terms of running for something." REUTERS

Analysis

Swift downfall

Once seen as a rising star among Democrats, Weiner, 48, established himself as a leading liberal voice in the House of Representatives.

He was known for making fiery speeches on the House floor on issues including expanding health-care access and aiding first responders to the Sept. 11 attacks who suffered health consequences. Weiner, who resigned from Congress in June 2011, had made an unsuccessful run for mayor in 2005.

His downfall came quickly in 2011 after he accidentally posted a lewd photograph of himself on Twitter. The married politician had intended it only for a woman with whom he had been sharing messages. REUTERS

Mezuzah burnings suspect is in custody

Cuffed. Ruben Ublies was arrested for burning 11 Mezuzahs on doors in Williamsburg.

Force at his girlfriend's home around 10:30 a.m.

The source said it has not yet been determined that the arson is definitively a hate crime; the NYPD will consult with the District Attorney before making that determination.

According to a law enforcement source, the suspect police named in the burning of several mezuzahs in Williamsburg is now in custody and is being interviewed.

Ruben Ublies is being held in a police facility where he will be processed, the source said. Charges are pending.

Contrary to some reports, the source clarified that Ublies did not turn himself in. He was picked up by the Hate Crime Task

A law enforcement source said Ublies has been arrested 40 times, most recently for assault, but also for stealing a car, trespassing, and possession of a firearm and marijuana, as well as other thefts, robberies and controlled substance possession charges.

He has been in jail 13 times, according to a law enforcement source.

History of crime

Ruben Ublies has a history of run-ins with cops.

- Police said he is a member of the Latin Kings gang.
- NYPD said he has the nickname "Booboo."

- He reportedly has two orders of protection out against him.
- Ublies lives in South Williamsburg.

East Harlem sex crimes on the rise

Big jump. There has been a 35 percent increase in sex crimes in the neighborhood.

Sex crimes are increasing at an "alarming" rate uptown, politicians said yesterday. NYPD crime stats as of March 31 show a 35 percent increase in misdemeanor sex crimes in northern Manhattan, compared to the same time two years ago.

And the NYPD fielded 13 sexual assault complaints so far in the East Harlem police precinct during 2013, compared to three in 2011, officials said.

"The spike in sexual assault complaints in East Harlem is alarming," Manhattan Councilwoman Jessica Lappin said.

Lappin, along with State Sen. Jose Serrano, handed out the flyers yesterday at the East 116th Street 6 train subway station.

"It's even more concerning that there is likely underreporting, especially among the immigrant community, which makes it even more important that we're out here today," Serrano said.

Anyone experiencing something like this should call 911 or NYPD Crime Stoppers at 800-577-TIPS.

De Blasio sues over ER trips for NYC students

Public Advocate Bill de Blasio is suing the city over ER records.

Lawsuit. The public advocate worries teachers are dialing 911 when students have outbursts.

Public Advocate Bill de Blasio said he will sue the city after students were sent to the emergency room when they showed behavioral problems.

De Blasio filed a lawsuit on Tuesday for data surrounding such incidents.

His concern, he said, is that with inadequate mental health services in schools, more educators are simply dialing 911 when students have outbursts.

This means more kids at the hospital instead of at school — and possibly more traumatized children, he said.

The State Supreme Court lawsuit demands documents from 2005 to 2010, including age, ethnicity and behavioral problems of each child. He also wants to know how much parents had to pay for each incident.

"As a parent, I'd be furious if one of my kids was sent to an ER because the school didn't know how to handle them. This is a disturbing reality for thousands of kids and parents," de Blasio said.

Active hurricane year boosts odds for major storm

Hurricane Sandy is believed to have directly killed at least 147 people, 72 of them in the U.S., according to the center. An additional 87 people died in the aftermath, the center said. / GETTY IMAGES

Storms. Atlantic hurricanes are watched closely because of their threat to major US population centers and to the Gulf of Mexico.

An above-average number of storms will emerge from the Atlantic this hurricane season, and the odds of the U.S. being hit by a major system are about 70 percent greater than predicted last year, Colorado State University researchers said.

Eighteen named storms will develop in 2013, the CSU forecasters said yesterday in their initial seasonal outlook. Nine of the systems are expected to become hurricanes, four of them major systems of Category 3 or higher with winds of at least 111 miles per hour. The CSU team estimated the chances of a major hurricane strike on the U.S. this year at 72 percent, compared with 42 percent last year. Sandy, which devastated parts of

New York and New Jersey in October, had winds of Category 1 level.

"We think we will have a pretty active season here," said William Gray, professor emeritus of atmospheric science at the Fort Collins, Col., university, who pioneered long-range hurricane forecasting 30 years ago. "Things are just looking good."

For the past three years, the Atlantic has spawned 19 storms each season, tying with 1995 and 1887 as the third-most active period in records going back to 1851.

Obama. Budget aims to kick-start deficit reduction talks

President Barack Obama proposed a $3.77 trillion budget yesterday that combines controversial cuts to social safety net programs with tax increases on the wealthy.

The package is meant to lure Republicans to negotiate a broad deficit-reduction plan, but the details mirror a proposal Obama laid out last year that was rejected by Republican leaders.

Obama's budget for fiscal year 2014, which begins on October 1, would trim the deficit over three years by requiring people making more than $1 million annually to pay more in taxes while enacting spending cuts that would replace the "sequester" reductions that went into place last month.

It has little chance of becoming law.

Many Republicans reject Obama's push for tax increases and many Democrats oppose cuts to the popular Social Security retirement program.

But both sides want to lower the deficit, which Obama's budget projected would fall to 744 billion in 2014.

"So, in the coming days and weeks, I hope that Republicans will come forward and demonstrate that they're really as serious ... about the deficits and debt as they claim to be."

Key senators announce deal on background checks

Gun violence.
A proposal for expanded background checks appears to be Obama's best hope for gun-control legislation.

Two key senators announced a breakthrough deal yesterday to expand background checks for gun buyers, boosting prospects that the Senate will approve at least some of President Barack Obama's proposed gun restrictions.

The agreement by Democrat Joe Manchin of West Virginia and Republican Pat Toomey of Pennsylvania sets the stage for a Senate debate on a gun-control package starting today, when the Democrat-led chamber is expected to defeat conser-

More controversial parts of Obama's plan — such as a ban on rapid-firing "assault" weapons — appear to have a slim chance of clearing the Senate. / GETTY IMAGES vative Republican efforts to block the bill from even reaching a vote.

Manchin and Toomey said their measure would expand criminal background checks for prospective gun buyers to include sales made at gun shows and online, closing a major loophole in a system that analysts say allows as many as 40 percent of gun buyers to avoid checks.

But the agreement, designed to keep guns out of the hands of dangerous criminals and the mentally ill, left significant exemptions for "temporary transfers" of weapons or private sales among friends and family members. No background checks would be required in such transactions. Other parts of Obama's proposal have a slim chance of clearing the Senate.

Isolation. Maine 'hermit' arrested, accused of food thefts

A Maine man who walked into the woods shortly after the 1986 Chernobyl nuclear accident and lived as a hermit for almost three decades, supporting himself by stealing from nearby camps, was arrested last week, police said on Tuesday.

Christopher Knight, 47, had lived nearly without human contact in a tent near a pond outside of Rome, Maine, about 20 miles north of the state capital Augusta, state police said.

They arrested him early yesterday morning at the Pine Tree Camp, where he was stealing food, police said. They said Knight, now being held at Kennebec County Jail, confessed to burglarizing the camp about 50 times, taking food, clothing, propane tanks and other essentials.

"Everything he owned

Knight mostly stole from nearby camps. / FLICKR except for his eyeglasses was stolen," said Stephen McCausland, a spokesman with the Maine State Police.

Knight told the officers who arrested him that he had spoken with only one other person — a lone hiker — during his years of solitude.

The man survived the brutal winters of central Maine, where winter overnight temperatures can drop well below freezing, by sleeping in multiple sleeping bags inside a tent that was covered with a tarp. REUTERS

Dinosaurs flexed muscles before hatching, study finds

It's not clear how fast this happened, though it suggests the embryos developed quickly, the researchers said. / GETTY IMAGES

Fossils. The bones were of uneven thickness, which suggests the embryos were moving to develop bone strength.

The oldest collection of fossilized dinosaur eggshells and embryos, found in China, suggests the animals grew quickly and flexed their muscles before they hatched, making them ready for action at birth.

The eggs and embryos were from about 190 million to 197 million years ago, during the early Jurassic period, according to a study published today in Nature. More than 200 bones were extracted at the site, near Dawa in southern China's Yunnan, near Myanmar.

The bones are from about 20 embryos called Lufengosaurus, creatures that grew to about 26 feet long. An analysis of femurs, the longest bones in the leg, suggested they doubled in size while the dinosaurs were still embryos, from half an inch to an inch. It's not clear how fast this happened, though it suggests the embryos developed quickly, the researchers said.

"We are, for the first time, looking in great detail at how embryos in dinosaur eggs would have developed as they grew," said Robert Reisz, a paleontologist at the University of Toronto, Mississauga, and leader of the international team that worked on the bones. "Others could only look at a single glimpse, when the death of the embryo was frozen."

S. Korea increases watch as North moves missiles

Conflict. Officials in Seoul said surveillance of North Korean activity had been enhanced.

But all was calm in the South Korean capital, Seoul, long accustomed to North Korean invective under its 30-year-old leader Kim Jong-un. Offices worked normally and customers crowded into city-center cafes.

Seoul stocks edged up 0.77 percent from a four-and-a-half-month low hit earlier in the week, though trading was light with threats from the North still clouding the picture. The won currency gained 0.3 percent.

North Korea observes several anniversaries in the next few days and they could be pretexts for displays of military strength. These include the first anniversary of Kim's formal ascent to power, the 20th anniversary of rule by his father, Kim Jong-il, who died in 2011.

Margaret Bin Laden? Thousands celebrate Thatcher death

"Spread the word — because she'll only die once!" — A dark but popular message from organizers of a "Thatcher's Dead" party, which has been branded on T-shirts and coffee cups.

Thousands attended celebrations of the former prime minister's death Monday, and many more are expected at more than 20 events taking place over the next week. Police are conducting surveillance ahead of a mass demonstration in central London on Saturday. A larger challenge will be for Thatcher's public funeral Wednesday — "Operation True Blue" — which will use stop and search and armed units to guard against attack.

KIERON MONKS/METRO WORLD NEWS

Foreign Minister Yun Byung-se said South Korea had asked China and Russia to intercede with the North to ease tension that has mounted since the U.N. Security Council imposed fresh sanctions on North Korea after its third nuclear arms test in February.

21 Tom Cruise on Holmes split

Tom Cruise is finally opening up about his divorce from Katie Holmes, which caught most of Hollywood off-guard. And it turns out it caught Cruise off-guard as well. "I didn't expect it," he says in an interview with German TV station ProSieben. "To be 50 and to have experiences and to think you have a grip on everything, and then it hits you — this is it, what life can do to you. Life is a tragicomedy. You need to have a sense of humor."

If by "sense of humor" he means "being an internationally beloved superstar with piles of money" then I can see how he overcame that break-up.

Perry sells mansion

Katy Perry is quickly unloading any remnants from her marriage to Russell Brand, including the Hollywood Hills home he bought in 2011 and then relinquished to her following their divorce for $6.925 million, according to Us Weekly. I'd love to see the inside of their house. I bet it's covered in black leather with various candy motifs scattered throughout.

Minnelli to the rescue?

Lindsay Lohan was nearly given quite the talking to by Liza Minnelli when the singer was reportedly approached by a Lohan pal to stage an intervention, according to Radar Online. Lohan's friend, Claus Hjelmbak, was the one who is said to have reached out to Minnelli. "Claus thought that if anyone could get through to Lindsay, Liza could be that person." So true: If Liza Minnelli thinks you're doing too many drugs, you probably are.

MATTHEW JACOBS

Let's get it on, Tisdale

Film. The new star of the "Scary Movie" franchise talks about learning to watch actual scary movies and simulating sex with household objects.

Here's a challenge most actors don't have to face: Doing last-minute reshoots that constitute more than half of the main plot of the movie. But that's exactly what Ashley Tisdale found herself faced with when her bosses on "Scary Movie 5" decided they needed their spoof to be more up-to-date and worked in some digs at this year's horror hits. And they had to work fast. Of course, some of that might be Tisdale's own fault, though.

"I saw 'Mama' opening weekend," Tisdale remembers. "I came out of there and I texted the producers, 'Oh my gosh, like we should really be spoofing 'Mama' because it just worked so well.' And then [writer] Phil [Beauman] was like, 'Funny, we're actually going to spoof 'Mama.'" So then we saw it again." By the actress' estimation, the additional material spoofing "Mama" and "Evil Dead" — based solely on seeing the trailer — accounted for about 60 percent of the finished movie, done over about 10 days of filming.

Before signing on for the latest in the "Scary

Movie" franchise, Tisdale was admittedly far from a horror fan. "I have always been really scared of scary movies just because I live by myself, and seeing something, then having a big imagination and then thinking you see it in the middle of the night [is terrifying]," she says. "So I've never been really into them. But it's funny because doing this movie, now I like them. Now I'll go watch 'Mama,' because then I see things and I'm like, 'Oh my gosh, that's so spoofable.' Because sometimes it's just so ridiculous."

But not nearly as ridiculous as simulating sex with household objects, something Tisdale was called on to do to excess for one overstuffed montage in "Scary Movie 5"

— with some covered during the initial filming and some added in at the last minute. It proved to be a steep learning curve.

"I had humped a potted plant in Atlanta, and that was nerve-racking," she says, adding that the chair's enthusiasm was provided by a prop guy. "They're like, 'Do it harder!' And I'm like, 'It's hard wood. It hurts.' I wish there was a camera on the prop guy who was probably like jamming it behind me. It just was so wrong."

That earned confidence didn't mean the performance was easy, though. "I do recall having the hardwood chair hitting me from behind and I looked from behind and I was all into it. And then suddenly, I was just like, 'I'm getting slammed by a chair right now,' and I started hysterically laughing," she says, adding that the chair's enthusiasm was provided by a prop guy. "They're like, 'Do it harder!' And I'm like, 'It's hard wood. It hurts.' I wish there was a camera on the prop guy who was probably like jamming it behind me. It just was so wrong."

Wavves of mutilation

Music. Don't ask Wavves about the lyrics on their new album, "Afraid of Heights." Just try to enjoy their snotty punk sound and matching attitude.

The Coast is clear?

'It doesn't matter anyways'

When asked if he thinks people will read into any relationship lyrics about his own public relationship with Best Coast singer Bethany Cosentino,

Williams counters that there are no lyrics about relationships on the current album. "People are going to think whatever they're going to think, and you can't change that," he says. "It doesn't matter anyways."

Every now and then you'll see a listing for a band you like, but the words "DJ set" will be encased in a set of parentheses after the band's name. These two words serve as an obvious warning so you won't be disappointed if you're expecting the band to play their own hits live.

But those two words don't properly warn you that you may also be disappointed by the band's DJ skills.

"It was literally a room-clearing set," remarks Wavves singer Nathan Williams about one such stint he did in Toronto this past weekend. There is more than a trace of excitement in his voice as he recounts the gory details.

"People were booing us," he says. "It was actually a really good DJ set, but they didn't like it. We played Powerman 5000, Korn, Bobby McFerrin, Sugar Ray... I think with this one in particular, they wanted us to play like Ra-tat or some indie dance music, so we decided to go for an experimental set, and then we did karaoke over all of the songs."

There's always been a fun snottiness about Wavves and this prank is typical of Williams' approach. When asked to open up about topical specifics of "Afraid of Heights," the new Wavves album, Williams offers little insight.

"I try not to think about almost anything that I write," he says. "I prefer it to just come out and be whatever it is, almost like stream of consciousness."

If it sounds like he's coming across like a punk, that's because he is. But that's fitting enough. And like Wavves' music, there's something that's affable about this smug punk delivery.

The skin he lives in Film. Max Thieriot talks going starkers in "Disconnect" and finding diversity in the webcam world.

Max Thieriot in a rare clothed moment in "Disconnect."

LD ENTERTAINMENT

Finding the comfort level to play Kyle, a young webcam model in "Disconnect," was no small feat for Max Thieriot. The role required the 24-year-old to shed most of his clothing along with his child actor image, though it's clear from roles in "Chloe," "House at the End of the Street" and "Bates Motel" that he's been eager to do that for some time. But few of his adult roles have required him to spend so much time with so little on.

"I just remember starting out, going into it, I just wanted to achieve this comfort level," Thieriot says. "The thing about Kyle is he's so comfortable in his own skin. ... So I think that was what I was constantly thinking about just so it came off as authentic as possible."

The webcam world is a dark one, and part of the appeal of the most successful performers on it, Thieriot found, is their ability to seem both mature and immature at the same time. "I met and talked to a few people who are in this business and who do this," he says. "When you watch webcammers, they always have this way that they're able to speak to everybody and how confident they are, and how they're almost able to flip it on you and make you feel like you're weird for thinking that they're weird for what they do."

Connecting with those folks and learning about their world meant spending a lot of time online himself. "I think I did more research for this movie than for any other," Thier-

Quoted

"The research was ... I mean, a lot of porn, really. And pretty much everything you'd expect from watching webcam sites and just watching them interact with people." Max Thieriot iot says, admitting with a laugh that there were a lot of suspicious Paypal charges on his credit card statement. "The research was ... I mean, a lot of porn, really. And pretty much everything you'd expect, from watching webcam sites and just watching them interact with people."

10 Films to see this week

1 '42' There hasn't been a film about Jackie Robinson since 1950s — "The Jackie Robinson Story," starring Jackie Robinson as himself. Chadwick Boseman embodies the first African-American baseballer in the Majors, with Harrison Ford there, too (probably grumping up a storm).

2 'Scary Movie 5' Spike Lee's cousin Malcolm (who's directed "Undercover Brother" and "Welcome Home, Roscoe Jenkins") takes over the franchise from David Zuker, who took it over from the Wayanses. Gone, too, is Anna Faris, but at least there are fresh jokes about Charlie Sheen and Lindsay Lohan, finally getting their due.

3 'To the Wonder' "Tree of Life" director Terrence Malick, who once spent twenty years MIA, releases his second film in three years, with another (about Austin, Texas, and Ryan Gosling) en route. Ben Affleck and Bond girl Olga Kurylenko play tormented lovers, but anyone who knows Malick knows not to care about plot.

4 'Disconnect' An all-star cast (Jason Bateman! Paula Patton! Michael Nyqvist!) populate this look at modern technology and how, like, the more we're connected, the more we're, like, not connected, or something along those lines.

5 'Angel's Share' The latest from English filmmaker Ken Loach ("The Wind That Shakes the Barley") finds him in one of his comic (or, more likely, semi-comic) moods, this time with Glaswegian youngsters trying to steal some rare malt whiskey from a Highland distillery.

6 'It's a Disaster' David Cross and Julia Stiles play a new couple whose plans to join friends for a nice Sunday brunch turn awry, even before it becomes apparent that the world is on the brink of ending. Which is also almost the premise of the forthcoming Apatow-fest "This is the End," incidentally.

7 'Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?' A new DCP restoration shows off the loud colors in cartoonist-turned-live action filmmaker Frank Tashlin's 1957 advertising satire, in which Tony Randall is trying to rise to the top by way of Jayne Mansfield's buxom starlet.

8 'House of Bamboo' Director Samuel Fuller ("Pickup on South Street") was one of the first from Hollywood to shoot in Japan, as he did with this colorful 1957 Cinemascope noir. Good guy Robert Stack goes up against bad guy Robert Ryan, sometimes atop Tokyo's most striking buildings.

9 'Evil Dead' Sam Raimi's name is attached to two current pictures: one a nice prequel to "The Wizard of Oz," the other a semi-remake of his 1981 debut about collegiates dispatched by a demon who makes them perform multiple self-amputations.

10 'Jurassic Park' 3-D "Jurassic Park" is 20 years old. You're welcome. Steven Spielberg's first dinosaur romp gets the extra-dimensional treatment, which we're assuming was implemented so that people could see 1993-era Laura Dern in 3-D.

I cheated at a party. What do I do now?

Dating. Would you be OK if your partner switched sides and cheated while drunk? Take a step back and think about it.

I've been with my boyfriend for eight months and we have a good relationship. The other night, though, I was at a party without him and got drunk and flirted with another woman. One thing led to the next and we had sex. I haven't told my boyfriend about it and I haven't talked to the woman again. I know guys think it's hot to see two women together, but I just don't know if I should tell him what happened. I feel really guilty and confused. What should I do?

For a moment, imagine your boyfriend is out at a party. He's getting drunk, starts flirting with another guy, and then one thing leads to the next and he has sex with the guy. Ask yourself: Are you OK with that? Do you consider that cheating? My guess is you're not OK with it and it violates a trust you've established over the past eight months. After that many months of dating, there's most likely an understanding — spoken or not — of exclusivity. If you've participated in such an activity and aren't comfortable disclosing it to your man, then it's cheating.

Think about the impact telling will have on him. Although honesty is usually the best policy, if this truly is a one-time experience, then why upset him? Consider dropping the matter and moving on. Do know, though, if he ever asks if you've cheated, you'll have to disclose this indiscretion — because keeping a secret will force you to barricade a part of yourself and interfere with intimacy.

Finally, if this only occurred because of the alcohol, then lay off the booze. But consider the possibility that subconsciously you've got same-sex tendencies that came out because your inhibitions were reduced while under the influence.

If you are indeed confused about your sexuality, do yourself and him a favor and end the relationship. Don't maintain one relationship for stability while exploring other options.

Take the Foot Health Checkup

- My toenails are streaked, discolored, thickened.
- The side of my toenails dig into the skin and hurt.
- I have a large bump behind my big toe (or little toe) which is always red.
- I get an extremely painful "cramp" in the area of my third and fourth toes when wearing shoes.
- My toes aren't straight - they are crooked, bent and hurt.
- I have painful calluses on the ball of my foot which keep building up.
- I have corns on my toes which get thicker no matter what shoe size I wear.
- The bottom of my heel hurts all day, but it's worse when I step out of bed in the morning.
- I have cramps in my legs which always happen when I walk the same distance.
- My ankles are swollen most of the time.
- My feet are always dry and scaly - sometimes they itch.
- My feet just hurt all over when I stand or walk a lot.
- I have numbness, burning, infection, persistent pain, skin rash, or open sores.

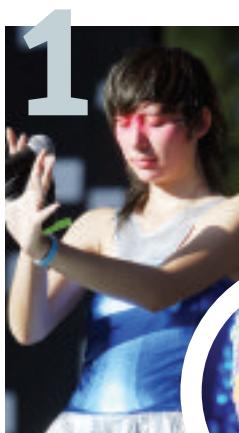

If any of these apply to you, call today.

Our favorite Karen O looks of all time

"Sacrilege" is a great song and all.
But what about that slamming yellow suit?

The Yeah Yeah Yeahs will release their fourth album, "Mosquito," next week. And with it comes a new look from the band's chameleon of a front woman Karen O. For one, she's now blonde. And she's into crystal-encrusted Elvis Presley style suits, the latest in a long line of wonderfully weird stage outfits designed by her bestie, the designer Christian Joy. We look back at some of our favorites (fishnets! zigzags! giant headdresses!) from Yeah Yeah Yeahs gigs past. KENYA HUNT

Horoscope

Aries | March 21 - April 20. If you're thinking of teaming up with others in something that requires an investment, test the waters.

Taurus | April 21 - May 21. Independence is a wonderful quality, but you can carry it too far when it's necessary to play nice with others. Be a team player when conditions ask it of you.

Gemini | May 22 - June 20. Guard against a tendency to treat your duties indifferently.

Cancer | June 21 - July 22. Accept your friends for who and what they are, faults and all. If you display intolerance, others will notice your imperfections.

Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. The best way to get a message across to your family is to lead by example.

Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. Unless associates believe that you know what you're talking about, they aren't likely to put much credence in your words.

Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. Even though you are presently in a good financial cycle, things could still get rocky.

Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. Usually, you are a strong and decisive person who isn't prone to wavering. However, today you might not be able to make up your mind.

Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21. Under most conditions, you're not averse to helping others. Today, though, you might miss a chance to help.

Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan. 20. Be extremely selective regarding with whom you associate. Don't get mixed up with the wrong people.

Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb. 18. Be particularly mindful of your behavior when in public, because your image is currently fragile.

Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20. Your associates will have a strong influence on your thinking. If you link up with a negative individual, you're likely to see the world darkly.

better from the rest, she accompanied me to walk to my office building on block down and made sure I was OK before she left.

Right before she accompanied me to the office, she made sure the newspapers were out there at an easy-to-reach spot for people to take and she would also tell her boss why she had to step away from her spot, too.

Even though she had to step away from her work for a moment, her kindness definitely represented and elaborated Metro's brand image as being truly caring and willing to help out New Yorkers.

She is the kindest person I have ever met. Being three months pregnant, my daily commute to work becomes a huge problem for me as I get light-headed easily by standing on the train and walking up the stairs.

On April 3, as I was about to pass out on the stairs at the exit, Janice saw me and provided the warmest help.

She helped me sit down and stood next to me to protect me from people's steps while she was handing out the papers.

She also asked many times to the people passing by if there were any doctors or nurses to help me. After I got

The new menus that put a spring in our step

Dining. With warm weather comes new offerings from your favorite restaurants. Here are our picks.

The patience of New Yorkers has paid off as spring has finally arrived in the city. The warm sunshine and clear skies gets us in the mood for two things: food and drink. The options are abundant in a city that relishes seasonal ingredients and al fresco dining. As your spring social calendar begins to populate, keep these gems in mind for the best tastes of the season.

Da Silvano Cantinetta

260 Sixth Ave.,
212-982-2343

At Da Silvano's younger sister — an extension of the classic New York spot — variety is the spice of life. Don't be intimidated by the endless menu options at Da Silvano Cantinetta, as the chefs manage to execute everything perfectly. The specials are constantly changing, but try to catch the green and white asparagus salad and a true sign of the season, soft shell crabs. You'll feel transported to Florence, especially if you snag a sidewalk table. For dessert, nothing has tickled our fancy more this season than their fennel sorbet.

Spring sips

Donna

27 Broadway, Brooklyn,
646-568-6622

Kick off a warm night with a cool cocktail at this watering hole. It doesn't get much more "spring" than the Sun-

The Smith

55 Third Ave.,
212-420-9800

The Smith has reinvented itself with a new seasonal menu. Nothing says spring like throwing back oysters on the half shell, and you can find Montauk Pearl and Beau Soleil on the menu. Still hungry? Don't miss the salmon with leeks, asparagus, oyster mushrooms and soft herbs. For something more carnivorous, try the braised lamb shank with steel-cut oat risotto.

The Smith puts an Italian twist on a favorite fish: trout Milanese with new crop potatoes. / THE SMITH

Galli's got balls. / GALLI

Galli

45 Mercer St.,
212-966-9288

Red sauce joint Galli has just launched a Buon Giorno menu, available every day until 4 p.m. On it find the eatery's gooey baby rice balls (which are more toddler-size, if you ask us), old-world style pastas and parms, plus breakfast additions like a cappuccino and croissant duo.

Brooklyn Winery

213 N. Eighth St.,
347-763-1506

Did you know there is a winery in Brooklyn? And wine isn't the only thing it has to offer? With a wine list that pairs perfectly with the menu, this just might turn into your spring headquarters. The experts at Brooklyn Winery recommend the rosé of zinfandel along with the seared diver scallops with smoked eggplant capona-ta. If you do the standard flight, which includes six wines, you might want to pad your tummy with something harder. Try the sweet potato and chickpea falafel or the lamb sausage with Rutabaga sauerkraut.

The Dalloway

525 Broome St., 212-966-9620

For spring, this lesbian-leaning hot spot somehow managed to take a hearty dish and make it light in the form of spring vegetable carbonara with applewood smoked bacon and pecorino. If you're a fan of sweet and savory, don't miss the grilled swordfish with wheat berries, yellow carrot and blueberry. And for that late-night craving, the Dalloway offers "midnight brunch" beginning Saturday nights at 11 p.m.

Metro sips on spring's new beer batches

What do you get when you put seven journalists (including non-beer connoisseurs) together for a beer tasting? This.

Sam Adams

Little White Rye

Marketing description:

"Innocent yet beguiling, this hazy golden brew at first appears to be a classic witbier. But behind Samuel Adams Little White Rye's sweet malt exterior is an intriguing blend of white sage and rye for a spicy yet refreshing kick."

Metro staffers: The brew "tastes like a solid 'beer' beer. So, beer-flavored beer. Remarkable." Some staffers marked this one as their "favorite" but a few found it "very typical." One summed it up as: "Is this Bud?"

Dogfish Brewing Co.

Dogfish Sixty-One, $8.99

Marketing description: "The name Sixty-One is a reminder that this beer is Dogfish Head's best-selling 60 Minute IPA plus one new ingredient: syrah grape must from California."

Metro staffers: Not that we've ever smelled it before in real life, but staffers quickly noted that Sixty-One "smells like marijuana," with one employee echoing, "someone must have been brewing something else." This is a "good beer for a dive bar" and gets high marks for being "drinkable" and "interesting" but "not too fancy."

The off-pink color was also popular: "It looks like a kid juice, tastes like an adult juice."

HE'BREW Beer

Funky Jewbelation $13; $11

Marketing description: "A blend of six ales aged in rye whiskey and bourbon barrels."

Metro staffers: Metro found this brew too sweet, "like the Manischewitz of beer." The scent of this beer was alternately described as "gross," "like molasses" and "cough medicine."

The overall experience was disappointing, with one news reporter forcing herself to drink "out of solidarity with my people." Although someone did give it some props by saying it "gets better after drinking other drinks — for once, beer goggles get turned on beer." The label got the highest marks in the entire tasting. "I want that dude's sunglasses."

Brewery Ommegang, HBO

Iron Throne; $8.50

Marketing description: "With a Lannister currently on the throne, it made sense to do a delicate, but piercing Golden Blonde Ale with Noble hops. Iron Throne is certainly fair in color and soft in appearance, yet it still possesses a complexity and bite to be on guard for."

Metro staffers: This beer is as "velvety as the royal capes in 'Game of Thrones'" and even got props from one non-beer drinker noting they can "actually drink this without cringing." Some thought the partnership with HBO was "weird" but the "tasty" blonde ale is "crisp" and "like a girl beer a guy won't be embarrassed to drink." Although one staffer did wonder, "Is this just Blue Moon in a fancy bottle?"

NEW YORK

DISTRIBUTION NOTICE: SB619

NYC AREA RESIDENTS CASH IN: Pictured above and protected by armed guards are the Overstuffed Vault Bags that everyone is trying to get. It's hard to tell how much these Overstuffed bags containing 10 Vault Bags full of money could be worth someday. That's because each Vault Bag is loaded with over 100 U.S. Gov't issued coins known to contain at least two dating clear back to the 1800s.

State zip codes determine who gets free Silver coins

Hotlines are ringing off the hook as valuable U.S. Gov't issued Silver coins get handed over free to New York residents who beat the 2 day order deadline to get Vault Bags loaded with over 100 U.S. coins some dating back to the 1800s

► Who gets the Silver coins Free: Listed below are the NYC area zip codes that get the Silver Walking Liberty free. If you live in one of these areas immediately call the Toll Free Hotline: 1-888-526-4429

NEW YORK - The phone lines are ringing off the hook.

That's because for the next 2 days Vault Bags containing valuable U.S. Gov't issued coins are actually being handed over to NYC area residents who find their zip code listed in today's publication.

"It's hard to tell how much these Vault Bags could be worth. That's because after they were loaded with over 100 U.S. Gov't issued coins including: Silver, scarce, highly collectible and circulating coins the dates were unsearched and the bags are sealed for good. But, we do know that some of the coins date clear back to the 1800s. Any one of these Vault Bags could be worth a small fortune," said Timothy J. Shissler, Chief Numismatist for the private World Reserve.

But even better than that, said Shissler, "NYC area residents who find their zip code listed in today's publication are guaranteed to get a valuable Walking Liberty Silver coin free with each Vault Bag and just that one 90% pure Silver coin alone could be worth $22 to $325 in collector value, so nearly everyone is claiming at least 3 Vault Bags for just ninety-nine dollars each before they're all gone."

The only thing residents need to do is find their zip code on the Distribution List printed in today's publication. If their zip code is on the list, they need to immediately call the National Distribution Hotline before the 2-day order deadline ends.

Everyone who does is being given the 90% pure Silver Walking Liberty coin for free just by covering the 3 Vault Bags each loaded with over 100 U.S. Gov't issued coins for only $99 each or $30 more for just a single Vault Bag as long as they call before the deadline ends.

Since this advertising announcement can't stop dealers and collectors will be answered. ■ tors from hoarding all the valuable coins they can get their hands on, the World Reserve had to set a strict limit of ten Vault Bags per resident.

"Coin values always fluctuate and there are never any guarantees, but those who get in on this now will be the really smart ones. Just think what some of these coins could be worth someday," said Shissler.

"With all this money up for grabs we're bracing for all the calls and doing our best to make sure NYC area residents get through. But, it's important that all residents who find their zip code on the Distribution List call the National Distribution Hotlines before the deadline ends. Because when the Vault Bags full of U.S. Gov't issued coins are gone, they're gone," Shissler said.

Each Vault Bag is loaded with a small fortune containing in part, highly sought after valuable collector coins dating clear back to the 1800s including a 90% pure Silver Walking Liberty Half Dollar, Eisenhower Dollars, the last ever minted Presidential Golden Dollars, Kennedy Half Dollars, Silver Mercury Dimes, rarely seen Liberty 'V' Nickels, nearly 100 year old Buffalo Nickels and circulating U.S. Gov't issued nickels, dimes and quarter dollars.

"We're allowing residents whose zip code appears on the State Zip Code Distribution List to claim as many as ten Silver Walking Liberty coins free. But, since you can't get these Vault Bags loaded with over 100 U.S. Gov't issued coins at banks or credit unions the limits will be strictly enforced," he said.

NYC area residents lucky enough to find their zip code listed in today's publication need to immediately call the National Distribution Hotlines before the 2-day deadline ends to get the Silver coins free. If lines are busy keep trying, all calls will be answered. ■

NBA draft

Zeller enters draft

Indiana sophomore Cody Zeller became the latest college player to declare for the NBA draft yesterday. Zeller was one of the top recruits in the country two years ago but stayed in school to develop his game and pursue a national title. The 7-footer averaged 16.5 points and 8.1 rebounds per game last season. He's projected as a lottery pick.

Lackey hurting

Lackey heads to DL

Red Sox starter John Lackey won't avoid the 15-day DL with a strained right-biceps muscle. The injury was termed minor for the pitcher, who is recovering from Tommy John surgery, but he'll still need to miss a couple starts. He was injured in his first start of the season. An MRI was negative.

Masters 2013: The coronation begins

Masters preview. Tiger Woods is the name on the mind of every golf fan as the Masters begins today.

Maybe you've heard — Tiger Woods is on a hot streak and ready to roll over everyone en route to his fifth green jacket and 15th overall major.

Woods is the overwhelming favorite to win thanks to a two-tournament winning streak entering this weekend. He won at the Cadillac Championship on March 10 and the Arnold Palmer Invitational on March 25.

He hasn't played this well entering the first major of the season since 2008 when he also won three tournaments prior to the Masters. It's probably worth noting that is also the last year, pre-knee surgery and pre-infidelity scandal, he won a major (the U.S. Open).

Woods cracked jokes and looked decidedly less dour in Tuesday's pre-tournament press conference — more like a man not burdened by injury and paparazzi.

"I think it's just a balance, a balance in life," Woods told reporters. "I think that's what you're seeing."

He famously went public with his relationship with Olympic skier Lindsay Vonn last month, an unprecedented move for the usually secretive golfer. Maybe she is part of the reason for his "balance."

But it's a different

Whose rival?

The man Tiger Woods just deposed as the No. 1 golfer in the world rankings seems like a natural rival for the resurgent Woods — to everyone but the man himself, Rory McIlroy.

- "I don't see myself as a rival to Tiger or to anyone," McIlroy said.

word than "balance" that often defined Woods during his height: fear. Some of that was lost in 2009 when Y.E. Yang stared him down, head-to-head, in the final round of the PGA Championship and watched Woods crumble.

The fear has returned, and straight from the top of the leaderboard.

"You're always worried about him making that big run the way he's always done throughout his career," four-time major champion Phil Mickelson told reporters.

"He's got 14 majors. I've got two," defending PGA Player of the Year Rory McIlroy told reporters Tuesday. "If I saw myself as a rival to Tiger, I wouldn't really be doing him much justice."

Where's Lefty?

Mickelson plays year's forgotten man

Phil Mickelson has won more Masters than anyone in the tournament besides Tiger Woods, but you wouldn't know.

He's gotten more attention for his hybrid driver, referred to as a "Frankenwood," and for his recent practice round with new member Condoleezza Rice.

MARK OSBORNE

Tiger Woods

Tiger Woods (7/2) is the favorite, so let's just get him out of the way.

Woods' putting really has him back in the mix for every tournament. But come on, pick someone else.

Rory McIlroy

McIlroy, and fellow fan favorite Phil Mickelson (both 12/1), offer the best odds for someone not named after a large feline.

Of the two, we go with McIlroy who looked very good at last week's Texas Open.

Dustin Johnson

Johnson (22/1) is your prototypical, "If he can just put it all together" pick.

Paulina Gretzky's man should crush the par-5s, but can he play well enough around the green to make his driving worth it?

Bubba Watson

Last year's champion is down the list of favorites in 12th place (33/1), but there is a reason for it.

Icons Tiger Woods (2001-02), Nick Faldo (1989-90) and Jack Nicklaus (1965-66) are the only ever repeat champions.

Matt Kuchar

As we move down the list, why not take a chance on a guy who had success last year?

Kuchar (33/1) finished third in 2012 and is coming off a huge win at the Accenture Match Play Championships in February.

Ian Poulter

The cheeky Englishman has the lowest odds (40/1) on our list, but a big game to back up his talk.

Poulter, a winner on the Euro tour in November, has finished in the Top 10 in two of the last three Masters.

UNMATCHED THEATRICAL EXPERIENCE

IMAGINE a theatrical experience so profound, so inspiring, it touches your soul. Let Shen Yun take you on a journey through 5,000 years of divinely-inspired culture: A journey where the virtues of ancient China, the world's finest dancers, a unique East-West orchestra and dazzling animated backdrops converge in one spectacular performance.

Experience the extraordinary. Experience Shen Yun.

"This is the finest thing, the finest event I've ever been to in my life. I was in tears, because the human spirit, the dignity, the power, the love coming out of those people was astounding... This is the profound, quintessential end of entertainment—there is nothing beyond this."

—Jim Crill, producer

"The dances were graceful and beautiful!"

There was something pure, bright and very dignified about them."

—Anna Liceica, former soloist with American Ballet Theater

“An extraordinary experience... exquisitely beautiful.”

—Cate Blanchett, Academy Award-winning actress

I am going to mention it on the news, because I think it is a great performance and people should see it.”

—Ernie Anastos, Emmy Award-winning news anchor

“What I loved is the authenticity of it ... from a spiritual level.”

—Donna Karan
Creator of Donna Karan New York

“So inspiring...

I may have found some new ideas for the next Avatar movie.”

—Robert Stromberg, Academy Award-winning production designer for Avatar
